Newest Mural In Historic Downtown Connects Businesses With Artists In City's Centerline District.

One building in downtown Glendale is getting a head-turning look, thanks to a new mural which will grace the outer south wall of a longtime downtown restaurant. The mural project is part of Artwerks, a city program that is pairing business owners with local artists to enhance Glendale's redevelopment and revitalization of the Centerline District along the Glendale Avenue corridor.

Local artist Martin Moreno and students at Las Artes de Maricopa painted the mural, "El Corrido de Glendale, Arizona," which was created on tiles and will be secured in a steel frame on the south wall of Bitzee Mama's Restaurant, located at 7023 N. 58th

Ave. When translated, "El Corrido de Glendale, Arizona" means to tell a story of Glendale to music.

At the inception of the project, Moreno met with business owners and citizens to discuss history, concepts and ideas for the piece of public art. From there Moreno was free to develop his vision of the piece, which is funded by donations. The mural on Bitzee Mama's wall will be a visible addition to the city's renovated walkway east of 58th Avenue that's home to First Saturdays, a monthly gathering of artists at work.

"El Corrido de Glendale, Arizona," presents a 100-year sweep of Glendale history in a work of art laden with symbolism. The 6'x16' piece includes a mariachi figure in front of a landscape featuring area agriculture, Native American pottery, the iconic Sugar Beet Factory, Glendale High School and the University of Phoenix Stadium, along with other historical features such as the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds and Sahuaro Ranch Park.

Glendale Rededicates Air Force Jet at City Park. The F-100D Super Sabre, nicknamed “The Hun,” displayed at Bonsall Park has been refurbished and will be rededicated on Dec. 15 to the military veterans of Arizona who have served our country.

The rededication ceremony will begin at 1 p.m. and feature comments from city dignitaries including Glendale’s Mayor Elaine Scruggs and Councilmembers Norma Alvarez and Phil Lieberman. Also attending will be special guests from Luke Air Force Base and Warren H. Rice, a fighter pilot that actually flew this F-100. The public is invited to attend as well.

The F-100 at Bonsall Park served at Luke AFB from 1962 to 1969 where it was used for training young fighter pilots. Along with Arizona, this jet was deployed from California, Japan, Korea, Nevada and South Dakota. In 1971 the aircraft was dropped from air force inventory and transferred to museum status. It was installed at Bonsall Park in 1973. This year marks the 40th anniversary of the plane’s removal from active use and its placement into the National Museum of the United States Air Force Static Display Program.

The plane was refurbished earlier this year. The complete facelift took more than 30 days to complete and involved removing the old paint and finish and giving the jet a new high-tech paint application and updated identification.

A special group of volunteers have helped considerably with the restoration project. Lt. Col. Marc “Dutch” Matthews, Arizona Air National Guard, and Lt. Col. & Mrs. David J. Kempson, Arizona Air National Guard, researched the flight history and background of the plane and are helping with fundraising efforts.

A fund has been created to support the annual maintenance of the fighter plane to preserve and maintain it for future generations to enjoy. Donations are being accepted; contact Michelle Yates at 623-930-2044 or myates@glendaleaz.com for more information.

Bonsall Park is located at 59th Avenue and Bethany Home Road.
